

Wedding vows pledge complete faithfulness to one person. They are meant to tell the other person that they are enough for you. The moment would kind of be ruined if one spouse second guessed every line of the vows. The would not be convincing that they think their future spouse in enough for them. God has made His commitment to us abundantly clear. He made it abundantly clear to the Israelites that He is committed to them. In Judges 1 and 2, God emphasizes His commitment to His people.
