

Romans 8:38-39

These two verses are the conclusion to Paul's conclusion regarding the infinite hope that we as believers have because of our faith in Christ. Paul is answering the question that he raised in verse 35. Do hard and confusing circumstances mean that God no longer loves us? In verse 37 Paul concludes, "Nay, In all these things we are more than conquerors." Because God spared not His only Son, Paul was fully persuaded that no person or thing can successfully separate one of God's children from His love. Even though Paul faced hard things, he did not doubt God's love. God has already made an air tight case for His love by sending His Son to willingly be condemned in our place.

In case we need more persuasion, Paul lays out an all inclusive list in verses 38-39. Neither death nor life can defeat us. One reason Christ came to earth was to deliver us from the bondage of the fear of death (Hebrews 2:14-15). Powers of this world and the invisible realm are powerless against God. Their opposition can never separate us from His undying love. Events, present and future, have been created by God for our good. Even when circumstance change, God's love does not. We can not be too high or too deep for God's love to reach us. In case He forgot anything, Paul concludes his list with, "nor any other creature." Nothing created can come between God's love for His children. That only leaves our uncreated God, and He promises never to stop loving us. No person or thing can separate us from His love. God is for us!

1. What is revealed about God in these verses?
2. What is revealed about you in these verses?
3. What is God trying to teach you about your position as His child through these verses?
4. Specifically, what needs to change in your actions and/or thought patterns in order to glorify God by living out this position as His child?

Write out one personal goal of action to better live out these truths this week; Be specific.

Romans 8:38-39

These two verses are the conclusion to Paul's conclusion regarding the infinite hope that we as believers have because of our faith in Christ. Paul is answering the question that he raised in verse 35. Do hard and confusing circumstances mean that God no longer loves us? In verse 37 Paul concludes, "Nay, In all these things we are more than conquerors." Because God spared not His only Son, Paul was fully persuaded that no person or thing can successfully separate one of God's children from His love. Even though Paul faced hard things, he did not doubt God's love. God has already made an air tight case for His love by sending His Son to willingly be condemned in our place.

In case we need more persuasion, Paul lays out an all inclusive list in verses 38-39. Neither death nor life can defeat us. One reason Christ came to earth was to deliver us from the bondage of the fear of death (Hebrews 2:14-15). Powers of this world and the invisible realm are powerless against God. Their opposition can never separate us from His undying love. Events, present and future, have been created by God for our good. Even when circumstance change, God's love does not. We can not be too high or too deep for God's love to reach us. In case He forgot anything, Paul concludes his list with, "nor any other creature." Nothing created can come between God's love for His children. That only leaves our uncreated God, and He promises never to stop loving us. No person or thing can separate us from His love. God is for us!

1. What is revealed about God in these verses?
2. What is revealed about you in these verses?
3. What is God trying to teach you about your position as His child through these verses?
4. Specifically, what needs to change in your actions and/or thought patterns in order to glorify God by living out this position as His child?

Write out one personal goal of action to better live out these truths this week; Be specific.